THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House is the president's home, and also a workplace for the cabinet. Before it stood at its famous address at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., the president's house was in Philadelphia, which was the temporary capital while Washington, D.C. was being built. When John Adams moved into the White House in 1800, he became the first president to live there. In 1814, British troops set fire to it during the War of 1812, and it required minor reconstruction. By the middle of the century, it became clear that the White House would have to be expanded to accommodate all of the people who worked with the President over the course of the day. President Theodore Roosevelt built an office behind the White House in 1902, with workspaces for him and his employees, now known as the West Wing. Since then, many presidents have had special rooms put into the house during their stay, such as swimming pools, bowling alleys, and gyms. The White House is open for tours, but you must arrange them through your member of Congress.

The White House in Washington, D.C.

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Why do you think the President needs to live in Washington, D.C.?
2. What special room would you have put into the White House if you were president?

Vocabulary

capital: a city or town that is the official home of the government. "We decided to go to the capital to see if we could find a lawmaker who would support our cause."

expand: to increase in size. "The company is expanding and will be moving into bigger offices next month."

accommodate: Make room for, or to make someone or something comfortable. "We can't accommodate your request for fifty pillows so you can make a fort in your room."

AMELIA EARHART'S PLANE

Amelia Earhart was a pioneer of flight and an important figure in women's equality. Aside from achieving many firsts in the aviation world, she was also the first woman to accomplish these feats and spent much of her career fighting for the acceptance of female pilots in aviation. Her plane, a Lockheed Vega 5B, is on display at the National Air and Space Museum. Earhart made two important flights in this plane: the first solo flight by a woman across the Atlantic in 1932, and later that year made the first solo nonstop flight by a woman across the U.S.

Amelia Earhart (1897-1937)

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Name another woman who was the first to do something important.
2. If you could fly Amelia Earhart's plane anywhere, where would you go?

Vocabulary

pioneer: someone who is among the first to do something. "Elvis Presley was the pioneer of rock and roll."

aviation: the study of flying in airplanes and other aircraft. "I wanted to study aviation in college so I could become a pilot, but my family wanted me to study law."

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

The Library of Congress began in 1800, when President Adams signed a bill that created a library for members of congress to use, containing only books that they might need to use for work. Unfortunately, the original collection was lost when the British burned down the U.S. Capitol during the War of 1812. An avid reader, former president Thomas Jefferson donated his collection of books to re-establish the nation's official library. Jefferson believed that all subjects were important to refer to, and suggested that the new Library of Congress keep materials on all subjects. The Library of Congress began collecting books of all kinds, as long as they were copyrighted in the U.S. After they began running out of space in the Capitol, a new building was built on the National Mall in 1886, where it stands today. The library also researches American life, documenting and keeping multimedia records of unique cultures, societies, and ways of life in the United States.

Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

A reading room at the Library of Congress

Vocabulary

avid: enthusiastic. "He is an avid comic book collector."

copyright: the right to make copies of or sell an artistic work. "We can't use that photo for our website because the copyright doesn't expire for another ten years."

multimedia: several different types of media used at the same time, such as video, sound recording, and printed text. "The multimedia part of this project will count for ten percent of your grade."

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Do you think it is important for the U.S. to keep copies of books about many different subjects? Why or why not?

2. Why do you think the library conducts its own research of American life?

The Star-Spangled Banner

The Star-Spangled Banner is the flag that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the words that he would later set to the music that would become our national anthem. During the War of 1812, Key was detained on a British ship. He noticed the flag being raised early in the morning after a major battle, and was inspired by the sight to write “The Star-Spangled Banner”. The song became popular with Union troops and supporters during the Civil War, and was made our official national anthem in 1931. The actual “star-spangled banner” that he saw from the ship is now on display at the Smithsonian’s National Museum of American History.

The Star-Spangled Banner at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

Vocabulary

anthem: a song of praise or devotion. “The British national anthem has the same tune as the patriotic American song, ‘My Country ‘Tis of Thee’.”

detain: to keep, to restrain. “He was detained by airport officials for several hours.”

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Why was Key so inspired by the sight of the American flag?
2. What other songs do you think would make a good national anthem?

LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Designed after the temples of Ancient Greece, the Lincoln Memorial was built as a tribute to our 16th president Abraham Lincoln, who many say is one of the greatest presidents in our nation's history. Lincoln successfully lead the country through the turmoil of the Civil War, and outlawed the cruel and unfair practice of slavery in the U.S. After Lincoln was assassinated in 1865, the public and government began thinking about a memorial to honor him. Work began on the Lincoln Memorial in 1914 and it was completed in 1922. Martin Luther King, Jr. made his famous "I Have A Dream" speech from the steps of the memorial in 1963. The Lincoln Memorial is located on the west end of the National Mall in Washington, D.C.

The Parthenon and the Lincoln Memorial.

Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Vocabulary

turmoil: confusion or uproar. "When the restaurant removed the double-mayo cheeseburger from their menu, there was great turmoil and unrest among their regular customers."

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Why do you think Martin Luther King, Jr. chose to make his speech at the Lincoln Memorial?
2. Name somewhere you have seen the Lincoln Memorial before.

Presidio of San Francisco

The Presidio of San Francisco is an inactive military base in San Francisco. Spanish colonists from Mexico founded it as a fort in 1776. In 1822, after Mexico won its independence, the Presidio became Mexico's property. 24 years later, The United States seized the Presidio. It evolved into one of the most important bases on the Pacific coast, and played a role in many U.S. conflicts until it was closed in 1994. The Presidio is now owned by the National Park Service and is a historical focal point in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, a section of public land in San Francisco and Marin counties that surrounds the Golden Gate Bridge.

Presidio gun turrets, San Francisco, CA

Vocabulary

inactive: no longer being used.

evolved: became, turned into.

focal point: an important or eye-catching item in a group.

Answer the questions below on a separate piece of paper.

1. Why do you think the Spanish chose to build a fort along the coastline?
2. Do you think it is important to preserve historic buildings like the Presidio? Do you think they should be open to the public? Why or why not?
